

BLACK HISTORY MONTH AT HDS

THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS:

Growing Up in the Civil Rights Movement

February 8, 2010

7:00-8:00 PM

Andover Hall, Sperry Room

Wylene Branton Wood grew up in the segregated south as a daughter of the civil rights movement. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and The Honorable Thurgood Marshall shared Wylene's dinner table with her father Wylie Branton, civil rights leader and chief counsel of the "Little Rock Nine" case.

Please join us in bearing witness to Wylene's formative experiences with growing up amidst the civil rights movement, and her exploration of the historical ambiguity of the cross for many African Americans still facing institutional racism in today's America.

Reverend Kaia Stern, PhD., of the Charles Hamilton Houston Institute for Race and Justice at Harvard Law School, will preface Wylene's keynote presentation by introducing the Charles Hamilton Houston Institute's ongoing work for race and justice.

Organized by

Harambee: Students of African Descent at HDS

Sponsored by the HDS Diversity Fund

Co-Sponsored By

*Charles Hamilton
Houston*

INSTITUTE FOR RACE & JUSTICE

HARVARD LAW SCHOOL